Weekly Newsletter from 21-25 September

You have two weeks to finish all trades but no short term leverage trading

Dear Members,

Last week was very volatile for the markets, currencies, and bonds because after the FED meeting the USA and European stocks gave away most of their gains which it made during the week. I was very concerned last week about the fact that if the FED doesn't hike the rates then it can give the wrong message to the street and that the market could fall, but the FED smartly blamed not raising rates on weakness in the emerging market and economic uncertainty in China. In other words, the FED indirectly said that everything is fine at home in the USA but they are not hiking the rates because of a problem in another part of the world. It means that everything is fine in the USA which should be taken as a great indication that stocks should move sharply higher in the coming time. We always put a small reminder that sometimes external news can impact any market for a few days, which we believe is what explains the last two days trend in the market which has news like the Fed announcement and options and futures Expiry.

If you look closely then only the markets that trade in USA futures and options market fell on Thursday and Friday, and these markets were the USA equity, European Indexes, and Japanese Index. On the other hand bond and currencies future trading were expiring. On the other hand the rest of the world's markets remained positive. The Indian market outperformed the global market during last week. Also, on Friday from 12.00 NY time the Scorpio Moon started which always brings uncertainty or pain as you must be aware.

From Monday the markets should start flowing with the astro cycle/wave nature and our astro cycles are still showing an amazing sign for the market in the coming time. Yes, I have been receiving the technical charts of S&P and other Indexes from different people every day, and they are all saying that most technical indicators are showing at least 20 to 25% more correction is coming in the market.

Our astro cycle view still remain very positive. Retro Mercury, Sun with the North Node (all these three planets are together now) started on Friday which will keep misleading investors and this combination is so unique and so important for any market, because history has always witnessed that the market bottoms out during this astro combination and adopted the most powerful rise, but the markets remained very volatile and uncertain before the bullish trend took place.

In 1998 the market made a high early in August and from mid-August it started falling and kept moving down. In the last week of September (S&P came down 25% from 1190 to 923) under the Sun, Mercury and North Node combination. Here is the astro chart of 1998 September, SU- Sun, ME- Mercury, RA- North Node and VE- Venus. Venus was there for a short period with all these planets.

In September 1997 the same combination (Sun, Mercury and North Node) and Mars was in Cancer. The USA market lost 14% in two and half weeks unexpectedly. Above during both the falls, FED news was dominating and brought uncertainty.

In 1987 SUN, Mercury and South Node created panic, but for the opposite geographic location which was JAPAN and that had a full impact on the USA market as well. The market bottomed out completely in one year and made a new high in late 1989 from 23000 to 40000.

The same combination is there right now for the USA market from the 20th of September 2015. This combination will last till 15 October. There will be an uncertain to mixed trend as the market has already taken a beating during last month when Mars was in Cancer. In 1987 the Japanese Nikkei came from an all-time high from 27000 to 23000 and then rallied from 23000 to 40000 which is 70% gain within two years. This history may get repeated but this time in the USA market. We believe in our predictions and as predicted S&P shall make a final bottom around 1900 and if you add 70% gains from current levels then the figure comes around 3200.

I have been working hard to find the hidden part of the market behaviour pattern with the help of the astro cycle and so far in the last 25 years it has been working very well and we believe that what we predicted in 2009/2011 of S&P reaching 3200 shall fulfil in 2017. You just have to trade carefully for the next two and half weeks and plan your strategy well and we are sure you shall be rewarded big time.

There are hundreds of important combinations in the astro theory which gives direction to the market. I always try to follow most of the markets history if they are less than 150 years old and many important astro combinations have not taken place in the last 150 years so many times a new astro combination is like a blank paper with a hidden message in it which is not easy to read.

On a short term basis the SUN, Mercury and North Node always creates some volatility but the market always bounces back sharply. A recovery came after a long period in the two previous crashes of 1929 and 2000.

Currently all the major astro combinations are not that negative but surely a major bullish trend is on the way from mid-October. Commodities are in the process of bottoming out but metals are still in an uncertain zone. Our target for is still 2379 by the end of this year and 2500 by the end of March 2016. Let's discuss each area and how the market will trade here below.

We write the book a year in advance and in 2015 which we were writing it in the second half of 2014 which we mentioned two important cycles in October and from 10 October to December. In last cycle which starts from 10 October we mentioned in a book that all the markets will move to an all-time high. Also look at the side ranges that have been achieved as mentioned in the book and the market held very well around the lower side ranges. When I write a book every year, I just take the top five major astro combinations that's, we aren't able to put all major 12 astro combinations in the book but we are still happy with the overall combinations.

This is what we mentioned in "2015 Financial Predictions" book and we are placed with over all accuracy.

Eighth cycle from 18th September to 9th October 2015 will remain very volatile. We will see sharp rises and falls in the market. Basically, people will start booking profit because of the big move earlier in the cycle. We do not recommend buying any positions on any correction during this cycle, but surely towards the end of the second week of October you should get ready to get into the market.

Ninth cycle from 10th October to 31st December 2015 will be a steady rising cycle for the market. During this period we see financials and industrials taking the lead. Small cap and beaten stocks will move sharply higher but surprisingly emerging markets won't be able to perform well during this cycle as compared to USA. During this period we see the markets once again moving towards an all-time high.

USA Year range of Indexes:

S&P: 2537 to 1927

NASDAQ: 5520 to 3880

RUSSEL 2000: 1393 to 1095

DOW Jones: 21,870 to 16,590

This is what we mentioned for metals in our book but we don't see any major upward trend in metals during 2015 so higher side will remain limited.

Seventh cycle from 16th September to 9th October 2015. During this period we see metals stocks moving higher with the positive momentum of base metals. There will be a sharp rise in gold prices during this period. Short term traders can trade in and out. We are not recommending staying short in metals during this period.

Eighth Cycle from 10th October to 2nd November 2015. This will also be a positive time cycle. During this period base and precious metals will move higher. We recommend traders to hold their positions in metals and metals stocks during this period.

IMPORTANT NOTE: I know everyone is very nervous with the markets trend but we are very hopeful that the market's rising journey will be once again from the second week of October, and this rising journey may only stop in April 2017. If what I see happens, then S&P will hit 3200 in the next 17 months, and NASDAQ will hit 7500 in the next 17 months. Do not trade with any leveraged positions, but surely you can keep accumulating indexes and quality stocks like Microsoft, Amazon, Home Depot and banking stocks. At this stage stay away from putting any new money in the market until the second week of October.

The Moon will be changing its house from Scorpio to Sagittarius on Mid-night Sunday so wait for the Monday USA market to open so make trades. At this stage S&P buying levels are at 1942, 1933 and 1925, S&P shouldn't close below these levels for three days. If S&P closes below these level for three days then get out from positions in the market and wait for our new outlook. We don't believe that S&P will close below 1923 for three days even though the current market is breathing is so negatively. Technical charts have 100% damaged and the month of October is just one week away and everyone gets scare with the month of October including Fund managers, billionaires and the FED. The best thing about October is that most of the markets always bottom out in the second week of October whenever they fall.

Here is this week newsletter from 21-25 September 2015

GOLD/SILVER/BASE METALS

Last week precious metals traded positively but base metals lost value on Thursday and Friday. The FED is not hiking rates which helped precious metals. Metal stocks lost value last week as they refused to follow gold and silver.

Once again gold is ready to touch $1144 and silver $15.44 but it will be hard for gold to close above $1144 and silver $15.44 for three days. The down side is still wide open for gold, silver, platinum, copper and Palladium, but if gold, silver and other metals trade positively on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday then it may force us to change our short term view.

The last two days I have been doing in-depth astro research on metals, if metals behave oppositely then we will come out with a new outlook for metals. This week on Friday we will provide a clear strategy on gold and silver. Subscribe services to read completer letter.....

INDEXES

Thursdays Fed decision and Fridays; futures and options expiry in all major September contracts of Indexes and Stocks which trade in the US exchanges brought volatility and volatility was expected because of both these events. We all know how important the quarterly expiry is, because the bull and bear both fight to fill their prices or take maximum advantage in pushing the prices in their favourable direction.

On Thursday the FED decided not to hike rates which was a little surprising for me because I was expecting a small hike, but it never took place. Jennet's press conference was done so well, and she gave such a clear indication that the reason for not hiking rate was uncertainty in China and weakness in a few other emerging markets. In short, this time the FED does not want to take any blame so they made the decision out of being overly cautious. Anyways, I still believe that the rate rise should have come in the month of July 2015 as predicted early this year when the markets were at an all-time high, and the market would have settled down by now. We are all aware that the few emerging markets and emerging market currencies have been falling and loosing constantly since the last few years. Same time many of these countries are benefiting from having weaker their currencies, especially Russia, Brazil, or a few other commodity exporting nations.

In the last year, weaker energy prices also helped many countries who are net importers of energy, and India is on the top of that list. That is the reason you see the Indian market outperforming the rest of the world lately. If you take the whole world, then we can say that the economic cycle is remaining very balanced globally, because a few countries are gaining form weaker currencies; others are gaining from weak commodities but there are some concerns with China's economic health and recent fall in equity market.

In the current situation, lower interest rates are helping the corporates as well as those who want to buy assets, so I do not think that such a balanced time has ever been there historically. I think human nature always talks about the negative, they do not see how much positivity is out there and that is what is happening currently. The rate hike ghost became so big in the media, that even the FED got afraid that a rate hike of 0.25 basis points could change the world's economic condition dramatically.

Anyways, we do not want to criticize the Fed because, since 2009 the FED has been doing a great job, and they will keep doing the best, as per their thinking. On Thursday during the press conference the FED clearly said that they were ready to hike the rates, but they took a pause, but they are still going to raise interest rates, which is a very certain point that they made and we should accept it without many any noise in future coming FED meeting.

We strongly believe that S&P won't fall below 1923 as predicted. We also mentioned last week that 1951 level is important and that S&P won't close below this level for three days. On Friday S&P fell below 1951, but then closed exactly at 1951, which indicates that S&P and the global stock markets are going to bottom out after having the worst time under the cancer mars.

Important Note: We understand that everyone is scared to buy this market because, Technical and investors sentiments have been shaken up. On the other hand the bears are in full control of pushing the bulls away in corner, but our astro cycle says that the equity markets are in the process of bottoming out against all odds and this process may take between 2-2.5 weeks before the most powerful rally starts in the major global equity markets. No aggressive buying is recommended in the next two and half weeks, but surely one can keep accumulating stocks by keeping the medium and longer term horizon in mind, and we are sure that you will be rewarded very well by the end of the year, as well as 2016. Subscribe services to read completer letter.....

For the last seven months USA dollar has been trading mixed or on both sides against frontline currencies. Yes dollar has gained value against emerging market currencies, but other frontline currencies have also gained value against emerging market currencies, which means that emerging market currencies have been trading negatively against most currencies. Canadian dollar and Australian dollar, which are known as commodity currencies have been trading weaker....
