

ARE YOU READY, HISTORY REPEATS AND WE REMAIN IGNORANT

Dear Members,

Many market pundits came to predict market trend with their own theories. For example, the “Black Swan” theory looks for unexpected, extreme events that are expected to make huge impact and create paradigm shifts to markets or the world. Through planetary movement we have tried to predict market trends and we have been very successful in the longer term but on the shorter term horizon we always struggled to call tops in any market.

Now, since last few months we have been targeting a fall in stock prices anytime after 2 October 2010, and this weaker trend will remain until the end of October. This is again a testing time for Astro work because this shorter term correction is significant and inevitable as per our theory. However, this shorter term correction will give birth to a true longer term bull market. On October 4, Monday, correction should start anytime, likely without any particularly breaking news, and surely within eight trading sessions market will fall sharply. There will be investor nightmares and asset prices will fall sharply around the globe. A free fall like phenomenon cannot be ruled out. This correction will be nasty but will only last for a short period “few weeks”, and again, a great buying opportunity will arrive by the end of October or early part of November.

Last week European markets remained weak as expected, and Asian markets traded more positively. USA stocks were also somewhat directionless.

Soft commodities came down sharply, especially cotton came limit down for two trading sessions.

Grains traded limit down on Friday and our fear proved very right there.

Oil traded positive, and gas came down.

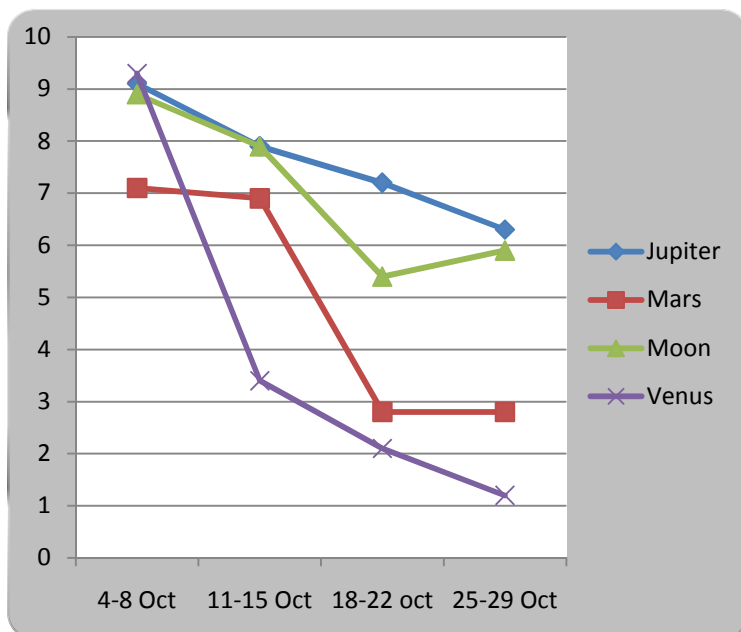

Metals remained in an upbeat mood and base metals also continued to follow in lock steps with precious metals.

Let's see what planets say on shorter, medium and longer term trends on financial markets.

Weekly newsletter from 4 to 8 OCTOBER

GOLD/SILVER

Gold hit all time high and silver was trading at thirty-year high last week. Buyers remained in an absolutely upbeat mood without any cautiousness. Party is going on in metals, which hit headlines of nearly all major media during the week, but many precious metal stocks were unable to break to the upside. Our warning will end at the end of October in precious metals so four negative weeks are pending in metals.

In this wave charts we see second week of October (11-15) getting more negative for metals specially Mars and Venus combinations because power of strength dropping sharply from 10 to 3 so negative waves will bring down metals. Jupiter and Moon power will try to bring metals up from day's low so expect huge volatility in metals during the month of October.

This week gold and silver will remain positive till Tuesday and may make new highs again but we have to watch Tuesday because it is day which will provide a clear path to metals.

From late Wednesday in USA trading session or early Thursday in European market gold and silver will fall sharply and this weakness will continue for the rest of the week.

Trading range for gold will be $1,326 to $1,288 and silver $22.28 to $21.18. If they break the upside or downside boundaries then they will move three percent in that direction.

Warning: After Tuesday, it will not be safe time for the “safe haven” investments. HUI and XAU index will correct sharply.

COPPER/PATINUM/PALLADIUM

Last week base metals remained positive with precious metals but were unable to trade even close to previous highs.

This week base metals will fall sharply from late Wednesday or Thursday and the fall will be almost inevitable. Sell base metals without fear as they are entering into a bear trend and this bear trend will be quite nasty for base metals.

Copper can come down to $302 in the next three weeks, platinum can fall up to $1,290 and Palladium $365.

Base metals will have free falls.

CURRENCIES

Dollar suffered a huge setback last week. Both positive AND negative economic data were pulling down USD. Once again faith from USD has virtually vanished, and other currencies were raising their heads against USD. Last four weeks' call on dollar buyer went wrong but we are still optimistic about dollar as our longer term indication is still showing dollar's raging bull market ahead.

This week dollar will start strongly from late Tuesday, gaining against all currencies. Trading range for dollar will be 78.00 to 79.88. Wednesday to Friday each day dollar will rise.00

Commodity currencies are just following Euro. Canadian dollar is showing weakness and this weakness will be well in place from this week. Australian will start getting weaker as well and from Thursday it will fall sharply.

Side currencies were trading very strong. Our prediction in side currencies last week also came wrong, but surely from next week we will see weakness in the secondary currencies.

Swiss Franc and Yen remained positive and both of these currencies are ready to give in so get ready for huge falls in Yen and Franc from Tuesday. This weakness will remain for shorter, medium and longer term so plan your trades accordingly.

Among all currencies Pound's astro charts have the weakest indications, so avoid trading Pound. Those who like to short pound can go ahead and take a trade. Range for pound will be 1.5920 to 1.5470.

I don't know what will make all these currencies to fall with commodities and stocks but surely something quite negative is on the way unexpectedly.

OIL

This week oil will move higher. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday oil will make multi months highs. We see oil going up to $84.80. RB gas and Heating oil will also move up. Thursday and Friday oil will fall sharply back to $79.80.

Natural gas will remain weak for this week except Monday and some recovery will also come on Tuesday but overall it will remain weak and it may make new lows.

GRAINS

Last week grains had a major setback as predicted. Lately our grains, soft and Treasury bond predictions have been right on the mark. Metals, currencies and oil, however, remained off track. Stock market trend we are expecting weak from this week so we will watch and see if our prophecy get fulfilled or not.

Soybean, corn, soy meal, soy oil and wheat had major setback even though overall commodity sentiment was bullish and for dollar, bearish.

This year's bottoming out and rise in grains gave handsome returns to our members. Since last three week we have been recommending booking profits as we saw sharp corrections in grains. Also two week back we mentioned that safest time to re-enter the grains trades will be mid November so wait until that period starts.

This week weaker trend will continue in grains and in shorter term we see corn coming to $452 and Soy $982. Wheat will also remain weak but not as weak as corn and soy.

Last week we recommended selling grains ETF's DBA, JIG, MOO, GRA. These ETFs moved down sharply. Those who missed opportunity in trading these ETFs can enter even now specially DBA and JIG.

COFFEE/COTTON

Last week cotton came limit down for two days, falling from $106.8 to $97.80. This is what happens in thinly traded commodities. Our outlook for cotton is bearish so stay shorts in cotton, and cotton's ETFs. Our next target in cotton is 91.80.

Coffee prices also remained very volatile and we don't recommend any shorts in coffee as we see prices moving to new levels after mid-October. Buy coffee at lower levels. Much less riskier price will be $165.

SUGAR/COCOA/ORANGE JUICE/LUMBER

All these soft commodities remained volatile. As you are aware that after coffee, our outlook for cocoa is also very positive for longer term BUT shorter term we see uncertainty in financial market so avoid holding any position in any soft commodities.

Sugar will move down significantly from Wednesday on, while Monday and Tuesday it will trade positive.

TREASURY BOND

This week bond prices will remain range bound. I don't recommend any trade in Treasury bond at this stage as planets are not giving any clear signal. We see bond making new highs again in coming few weeks.

STOCK MARKETS

Finally our crash day is approaching. Last week European market suffered, Asian and USA market remain stable. India is riding high, along with Indonesia and Philippine markets, both reaching historic highs. Brazil is also trying to catch up in this emerging market race.

Everything seems to be in favor of the stock markets, especially central bank policies and money flows. Everyone is asking me what will bring the sharp corrections in stocks and my answer is “selling wave”. None stop selling wave can dominate all stock markets and markets will fall like there is no tomorrow so please GET READY.

This coming crash in stocks will make 1987 memories fresh again. In simple words, crash is coming between 4 to 12, October 2010.

Sell Asian market, European markets and USA markets fearlessly from Monday.

Analysis of the month of Oct, 2010: 10 point is highest where indicates that in shorter term markets won't go up. Level zero is risk free buy. Wave indicates that second week of Oct looks horrible and fourth week looks stabilizing because force of negativity will reach at low.

BEST ADVICE: TAKE TRADES ON BELOW NOTE

Crash in stock market and commodities are coming any time between 4 Oct to 14 October. Again, crash will be very sharp and deep so prepare yourself for this extreme volatility, and take very limited risk in markets. I warn stock traders as well COMMODITY traders to get rid of their long positions.

I don't know how big this fall will be in commodities and stocks but surely it will leave a huge impact in investors' mind because it will be unexpected and not stoppable for a few day or weeks.

I believe that after this coming twelve days you will say yourself that there was a hidden reason why you subscribed our services.

Note: Those who don't want to take big risk in future trading, they can play with ETF's and call/Puts options.

Don't sell alternative energy stocks (solar, uranium, wind and electric/battery). You can hedge you holding with selling tech and banking stocks because coming planetary will bring again concern in markets.

Take this seriously - Jupiter indicates that, there will be big announcement from Fed policy changes and some new regulations coming for markets which will upset global investment community.

Thanks & God Bless

Mahendra Sharma,
