Thursday's Stock Investment Report

Emerging market currencies losing value...

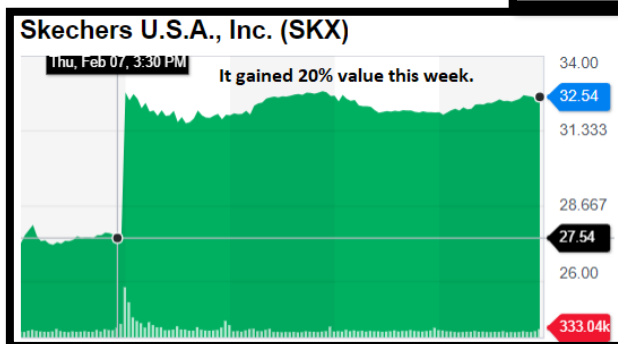

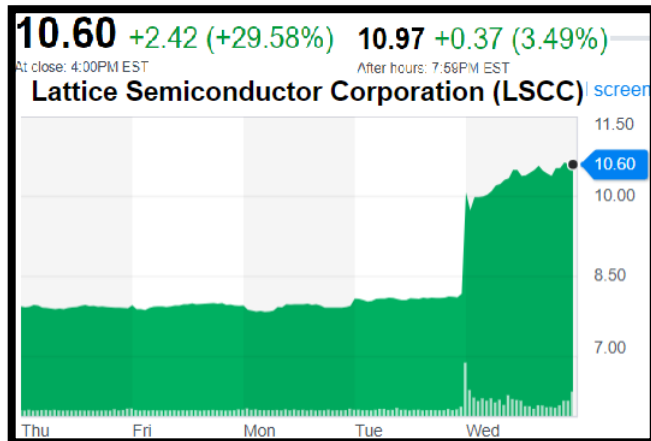

Dear Members,

On Wednesday market moved mix, but emerging market traded negative. Dollar is started gaining against emerging currencies which creating some uneasiness among emerging market, emerging market currencies and commodities.

USA market is holding value, S&P closed above 2738 level. Oil gained some value and rest of commodities lost value including softs and grains.

Dollar Index once again it is heading toward 97.18 level.

Last few months we have been recommending buying SXX and LSCC, these two small companies have been in our favorite buying list and they both started performing very well.

On Thursday we are expecting both side move, China USA trade deal may take place in week end but still final signing up may take another two weeks.

Most of book buyers are very happy, I have been receiving very positive notes from buyer. Here one note I just received and It always make us happy when we receive note from members or book buyers:

Mahendra,

Hope you are feeling better.

Indexes you provided nice format in weekly letter. It is very simple and easy to understand.

On Monday we are recommending staying on the sidelines, or trade in and out in most of the markets.

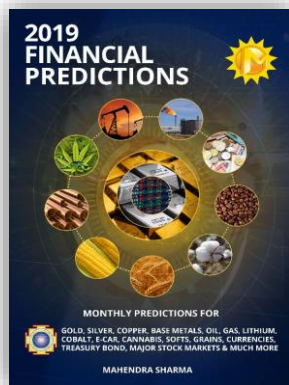

On Tuesday we are recommending buying as the astro combinations are very positive.

On Wednesday the market will open on the higher side, but profit booking will come.

On Thursday and Friday weakness will come, or profit booking will come.

It would be nice if you put the same format going forward and remaining sectors as well.

Your book is so accurate till now hope it will be the same for the rest of the year.

Also can you please mention the weekly letter about the cannabis stocks like when it is right time to enter?

Thanks and Regards,

Repalle

I am sure you must have read the book, please update me with your thoughts on the same. I think it is worth every penny that you will spend on “2019 Financial Predictions”. The book has detailed monthly predictions for metals, stocks, grains, currencies, energy, and softs.

I wish you good luck and pray that every prediction from “2019 Financial Predictions” comes true.
